Due to the Health and Safety Laws, coupled with the elite field assembled, it was decided that as the weather was so bleak the “three lapper” was the preferred course. The turnout wasn’t that great numbers wise, but the quality was certainly present.

Tordoff set out like a man possessed and dominated from the front, showing his true love for Lactic Acid, which looking at his lap times made an appearance at lap 2!! Marlow couldn’t go with the early pace, suggesting he is more at home swimming when he’s this wet. “Great effort in your Ironman Triathlon by the way”.

Bullock had gathered up the teddy’s from his bedroom, placed them back in his cot and ran well as he dreamt of the chip buttie return.

Williams ran a progressive race, just failing to catch Bullock, whilst Leyland and Johnson battled it out for a top 5 place.

Collingwood M ran well, finishing like a drown rat, which was fortunate as this matched the dead mouse his top lip was sporting.

Torrington did well for 2 laps, before calling it a day.

Collingwood P fell victim to a 53 minute warm up and finished after 1 lap.

Big thank you to the dedicated team of time keepers. Much Appreciated.
